FINANCIAL TIMES SURVEY

Monday July 7 1975

With the first glow of revolutionary triumph fading fast, Portugal's new leaders have come up sharply against the harsh realities of government. Their task—which is nothing less than the conversion of Portugal into a modern State—carries with it a formidable degree of urgency.

of the revolution come to power April 26. with only the most rudimentary Small wonder, then, that the idea of the kind of revolution Armed Forces Movement took and economic problems.

prestige of the uniform, rather Communists are unstable. than from a coherent alternative political philosophy. For a long time, indeed, the left- Idealists wing navy officers stood aside from army plottings, because of The corollary of the political nothing of Northern Ireland. from the overthrow of the astonishing degree still main-national character, as many increased wages, partly because tion they want, let alone how to power with seriously divergent views, or that these divergencies To-day, 14 months after the are still apparent in the in-April 25 coup, there may be a ternal contradictions inherent slightly more informed con- in the arrangements that they sensus among the leaders of the have made since April 25 last Armed Forces Movement of the year. It is even less surprising desirable parameters of the that in the process of trying to revolution, or at least a greater deal with the consequences of awareness that some of the com- their revolution, and learning, peting sub-revolutions which as it were, on the job some of authors of the coup and fathers ised until the small hours of there is an element of a power made little attempt to place any affect about half the country's country several notches left. Portugal's economic troubles ing of a constitution. But on the anything to go by, it is remark- programme drafted by Major cludes a quota of straight- crumbling of virtually all both management and pro- Angola, there may well be a aspect is that too many of the in the face of economic ably easy to mount a successful Melo Antunes (now Foreign forward opportunists, the more traditional structures of auth-duction coup against a rotten régime, Minister) was not submitted to so because of the important role ority and control, and that while In an attempt to counter the No doubt all these problems fect grasp of the economic general elections to a fully but remarkably difficult to the political committee of the played by considerations of the Armed Forces Movement is sharp deterioration in the trade are soluble in time but time mechanisms which they are fledged parliament are not manage a successful revolution. Armed Forces Movement until professional status in launching the nearest thing to a govern-deficit, the Government has im- is not on Portugal's side. In attempting to change, and that scheduled to be held until the It is even more difficult if the April 24, and it was not final- the movement. Inevitably, too, ment in Portugal, it has so far posed import surcharges which their determination to shift the too many of them believe that end of the year, after the draft-massive reflux of settlers.

Time running short

By IAN DAVIDSON, European Editor

the intervening months militate any change, some of the leaders of the coup should have precipitated an tween military rule and ment by its laudable determinawith Portugal's social, political ate but also as one of the intense. But the collective im- trend. shrewdest members of the milishrewdest members of the mili-The problem is that the motor

The problem is that the motor

The problem is that the motor

Calves (now Prime Minister)

The problem is that the motor

Calves (now Prime Minister)

Calves (now Prime Minister) power for the coup came primarily from professional resentto be a moderate; now he is rement among army officers at the ment among army officers at the garded not merely as a firm role assigned to them by the Salazar-Caetano régime, and at but also somewhat unstable— word but not of blood-red rove leading businessman put it, the consequent decline in the which is not to suggest that lutionaries. The coup was word, but not of blood-red revocarried out, and the revolution they are lousy. has stumbled on, with far less question of what the revolution coup is that the revolution political violence may lie in the panies are faced with a critical manufacturing sector. It will revolutionary fervour in the Communists or the parties fast being eroded by their failure was supposed to achieve apart started out with, and to an natural peacefulness of the cash squeeze, partly because of certainly rise with the repatria- early months after the coup, further left.

government. But there is still changed their minds. Whereas Revolutionary Council, and the roots revolutions. It remains to very little evidence that the Melo Antunes first appeared as steady deterioration of the be seen whether the recent ban military have developed ideas a left-winger, he is now widely economic situation is bound to on political activities inside the or institutions which can deal regarded not merely as a moder-

"our statistics were poor, now been scared off by exaggerated responsibilities. revolutionary violence, and the emigrant for or against workers' control, demonstrated, through the high services, the authoritarian workers have reacted in the nationalisation, and the re-turnout, massive popular sup-option is really viable except same way, with rather more structuring of the economy, the port for a civilian pluralistic through a new, and quite rational justification. As a price of rapid and ill-prepared system, and, through the distri- possibly bloody coup led by a result unemployment has soared action on all fronts simul-bution of votes, that while a centurion-figure. political bloodshed than is cur- the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the Portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously is likely to be more large majority of the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on rising for taneously in the portuguese economic situa- and is likely to go on ris rent in Spain or Italy, to say tion is grim and is getting the rest of this year, not least confusion than socialism. The guese may be happy to vote too clearly, is that the prestige grimmer every day. Inflation is because of the danger of bank- confusion has been intensified for left-wing parties, only a very so gloriously won by the overthe lack of political thrust. The innocence of the authors of the One reason for the lack of as high as in the U.K. Com- ruptcy facing companies in the by the mutual intoxication of small minority supports the throw of the Caetano régime is and demobilisation of and while this fervour is now The key question facing economy, and that the time endorsed its support for a pluralistic democratic system, Free debate within the movement for more authoritarian forms of govern- The Armed Forces Movement, ment. It is a weakness, because for its part, is almost inevitably there is an ineluctable, and pos- hobbled in facing up to the there is an included in the real problems of revolutions of the imports, and while this may wards, the leaders of the revo-sibly fatal, contradiction be-pressing problems of govern-the intervening months militate ary change, some of the leaders factions in the contradiction be-pressing problems of governinevitably increase manufacture exodus among the bourgeois democracy; yet the Armed tion to maintain democratic flite. No doubt doctors, Forces Movement continues to processes within its own ranks. ing costs at a time when manuengineers, managers can be assert both its ultimate The option of asserting more facturing industry's competitive replaced, but not overnight authority in the political strucauthoritarian rule, which is position is already precarious. Some of the workers who have ture of the country for at least favoured by some in the Traditionally, the trade deficit been precipitated into positions the next three years, and the Supreme Revolutionary Council, has been covered by invisible of power are trying to take development of a civilian can only be achieved by suppresreceipts, from tourism and sensible, methodical decisions, system based on competing sing or least severely curbing remittances. But in the past and a few of them are intellec- political parties and free elec- civil and military democracy. year the tourists have evidently tually equipped for their new tions, It is a strength, because But it remains open to question the first elections (to the Con- whether, after the release of But whatever the arguments stituent Assembly) have already free political debate within the

IF PORTUGAL'S experience is months before the coup, and the Armed Forces Movement in has been followed by the of revolutionary disruption to ment in the security situation in Perhaps the most disturbing cratic—will prove more resilient guese but of a malicious politi- Assembly elections, Dr. Mario cal boycott by foreign customers Soares could reasonably claim to be in a position to form a The weakness of the revoluccoalition government with his tion, and its great strength, is own Socialists and the Popular the Armed Forces Move. Democrats, who together ment has, so far, consistently secured 63 per cent. of the vote.

from Mozambique now waning in the face of day-to- Portugal to-day is, which of remaining for this particular

Gen. Francisco da Costa Gomes

Who's who: military...

Gen. Francisco da Costa Gomes

lutionary Council.

played a leading role fighting of the armed forces. refusing to swear the oath of tion and elections.'

allegiance to the Premier in General
March, 1974. Both were then sacked. The original candidate of the Armed Forces Movement Vasco for the post-April 25 presidency, he agreed with MFA officers Goncalves that Spinola should be appointed utionary Council.

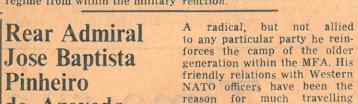

Nicknamed "The Cork" for his Council.

After a distinction in maths at ability to weather successive

Army Chief of Staff under pluralistic socialism through the in opposition to the Fascist choose between revolution and General Caetano, he joined Spinola in fertile cross-breeding of revolu-

the army and served as dency in September 1974 the Goncalves avoided the messier ideologue he is impatient with cavalry officer in Portugal and President is regarded as con-side of the colonial wars though those who stand in the path later in Macau, Mozambique. ciliator among the various fac- he served in Goa, Mozambique of the revolution. However, his Promoted to General while tions of the MFA, an astute and Angola. An intellect political beliefs are to-day Promoted to General while second-in-command Portuguese forces in Mozambique where he last also Commander-in-Chief father of the revolution for his blended with realism, or at least co-exist alongside realism. long time interest in and study "We are not a Trojan horse Frelimo's liberation army. As "Our revolution aims for of politics and Marxism. Active in NATO. In Portugal we must regime from within the military reaction."

ranks, he took part in the 1961 abortive military uprising in Beja. His close links with the Portuguese Communist Party date back to such anti-fascist opposition. Appointed Prime Minister after the fall of the President of Portugal and since in the eyes of the people Prime Minister and member Palma Carlos first provisional member of the Supreme Revo-Spinola held more authority. of the Supreme Revolutionary Government, he has a reputation for fiery public speaking and fierier irritation in Cabinet. An Oporto University he entered storms since taking the presi- An army engineer, General intense and uncompromising and Marines commander from reasons given us for this deci- governor there after the revolu-1972-74. An original member sion a year ago and we are not tion. However, under the influof the first post-April 25 Junta going to create difficulties about ence of young MFA officers in abroad to reassure NATO coun-

Captain Vasco Lourenco

Pinheiro

de Azevedo

Member and spokesman of the Supreme Revolutionary Council. Captain of Rangers in Guinea Bissau where he quarrelled with Spinola. Regarded as founder of Armed Forces Movement. His links with anti-fascist resistance and with the birth of the captains' movement were discovered and Caetano ordered him overseas after he took part in the March 1974 abortive Caldas da Rainha military *coup. On his way to the Azores he spent some time in the Cape

General Vasco Goncalves

NATO officers have been the lutionary Council.

Spent over ten years of his of National Salvation he is this delicate problem. I believe Bissau he led the decolonisation also Naval Chief of Staff. our position is correct."

General Otelo

under the President of COPCON

security forces in Portugal. Ar

Saraiva de

Carvalho

lutionary Council.

troops in direct disobedience of Spinola's orders in Lisbon. Having thus earned his revolutionary credentials he returned to Portugal in October and was made Army Chief of Staff. Like many other former Spinolist officers he broke with the Member of the Supreme Revo- General and followed the leftwards swing in the MFA. Not a radical nor a Marxist, a quiet shy man, without apparent abroad to reassure NATO countries recently.

Specific of the Sissau where he became a close friend of ex-General Spinola. A late lower rather than a leader in politics, but as Army Chief of the specific of Born in Luanda, he entered without Portuguese particing.

NATO's nuclear planning of ex-deficial Spiniola. A late politics, but as Army Chief of Forces Movement, to the surthe Navy, was assistant naval without Portuguese participa- prise of MFA officers in Guinea above all he is intent on rebuildattache in London from 1968-71 tion. We understand the Bissau he was nominated above all he is intent on rebuild-

"Democracy must not be conebullient mischievous man, with a flair for outrageous statements, his short stocky frame exudes command. Firmly dis-